Freya Marble Tray

By Currey & Company

Description

The Freya Marble Tray is created by an engineering feat, as the white decorative tray is cut on a CNC machine that carves out the interior and drills the holes that ornament the circumference of the piece. An artisanal aspect to the design is the uniformity of the thickness of the sides and the regular spacing of the holes, both of which require refined handicraft skills. The beauty of real stone is evident here, as the subtle veining brings elegance to this tabletop element.
