Jager Lounge Table By Audo Copenhagen

Description

Originally designed by Mogens Lassen in 1941, the Jager Lounge Table was inspired by folding stools and beds found in King Tutankhamen's tomb. Lassen gave the ancient objects a distinctly midcentury modern facelift, with rounded corners and streamlined wooden legs characteristic of the Scandinavian style. The legs can be folded down so the table can be stored while not in use, making it perfectly suited for smaller homes and apartments with limited space.
