Artichoke Sculpture

By Currey and Company

Description

Made by a group of women who live at the border of Burma and Thailand, the Artichoke Sculpture is an incredible hand-thrown ceramic sculpture with each leaf applied by hand one by one. This nature-inspired piece has tremendous character and a richness to it, which is due to the white glazing that is applied after the piece is composed. A hint of texture is achieved when the natural terracotta color of the material shows through on the top edges of the leaves.
