Sahure Chandelier

By Eichholtz

Description

The Sahure Chandelier is a collaboration of The Met and Eichholtz, is a work of art inspired by the grand Egyptian column ca. 2458-2446 B.C. reminiscent of a date palm. This column was one of 16 that surrounded an open courtyard in the pyramid temple of the pharaoh Sahure. The smoke glass lines articulate the granite column's palm-like form, creating an air of timeless elegance in your space.
